CONCLUSIONS

- SAR-based wind fields accurately describe small scale wind field variations and can be used to monitor turbine wake signatures
- On larger scales, SAR wind fields reveal shadowing effects of wind parks
- Statistical analysis of wind park shadows can be used to identify areas of possible influence of turbine arrays and quantify harvesting deficits due to adjacent parks

REFERENCES